Manager's Greetings

Submitted by: Aleda Welch,
Manager 4-H BC

2020 may have been the summer of COVID-19, but people found ways to bring a sense of normality to the chaos. Virtual show and sales, drive thru fairs, one day workshops, smaller group and/or individual judging competitions and project achievement days were just some examples of the ingenuity and adaptability demonstrated by communities around the province. "Learn to do by doing" has never been so relevant than over the past months.

The Food For Thought program was delivered through one day camps in six locations. Through a combination of in-person and virtual presentations, 4-H members were able to enjoy a modified version of the program in a safe socially distanced manner.

A successful 4-H BC Provincial Public Speaking Competition was held virtually on August 29th. Congratulations to all the delegates that participated. I am happy to announce the top three speakers were Elena S., Naomi C. and Emily C.

Coming the fall - the virtual 2020 Leadership Symposium will be held on October 17th. It will be a fun day of presentations, workshops and networking. Each participant will receive a registration box filled with '2020 Vision' items to use during the day. Registration deadline is September 30th.

Don't miss out, go to <https://www.4hbc.ca/leader->

training-events/view/508-provincial-leaders-key-leaders-conference to register today. I hope to see both current and new leaders on the 17th!

2020 will be a summer to remember. I will remember the resilience of 4-H leaders and members, staff and stakeholders. I will remember phrases such as "We are in this together" and "Be Kind. Be Calm. Be Safe." (Dr. Bonnie Henry) I will remember quality time spent with treasured friends that are in my 'bubble'.

Till next time,
Aleda Welch

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

Submitted by: Lauren Bernardi

BC Ministry of Agriculture

4-HBC's Food for Thought is a bi-annual program designed for 4-H members ages 14-15. The program first started over 10 years ago. A typical Food for Thought program is a week in length and focuses on agriculture awareness through engaging farm tours and presentations to teach the delegates about primary production in BC's agriculture industry. Delegates also engage in agriculture related discussions, debates and activities throughout the week.

The COVID-19 pandemic posed many challenges for the planning of Food for Thought 2020. Program staff had to modify curriculum that would normally supply five days of in-person program material into one day, and ensure all activities were low- to- no touch to reduce the chances of transmission.

Food for Thought: Abbotsford, 2020

Instead of inviting delegates to travel to one location at the same time, 4-H and Ministry of Agriculture staff traveled to six locations to deliver a reformatted day camp style program. The programs were one day in length and focused on virtual farm tours, Zoom presentations with agriculture professionals and low-touch, physically distanced agricultural themed activities.

Games and activities were facilitated using a rope which program staff taped to the ground that was pre-measured with 6 ft. spacing. This allowed staff to create activities to get delegates moving and interacting in a safe way.

Before the beginning of the program, staff created a COVID-19 Safety Plan with the help of Worksafe BC's Safety Plan guidelines. This plan covered all safety measures that staff were to practice before, during and after the program, as well as expectations that the staff had for the delegates before and during the program.

A typical day at Food for Thought started with a fun warm-up activity and introductions, followed by the first presentation of the day, which was a general overview of agriculture in BC. This presentation covered BC agriculture statistics, the Agricultural Land Reserve (ALR), and included an activity on BC's top 25 agricultural commodities.

In the late morning, delegates had the opportunity to engage with the BC Cattleman's and BC Cattle Feeders Associations through a live webinar as they learned about Beef production in BC. Delegates also learned about how mushrooms, chicken and blueberries are produced in the province through a series of video farm tours.

In the afternoon, delegates received a presentation from the BC Agriculture Council, where they learned about "hot" agriculture topics and what BC consumers value most when it comes to their food. Then, they had the opportunity to join a live virtual tour inside a laying hen barn with the BC Egg Marketing Board and some select BC Egg Farmers! Delegates continued with the afternoon by learning about the production of BC salmon, greenhouse vegetables, dairy and cherries through a second set of video farm tours.

Finally, the day ended with a fun food marketing activity, where delegates learned about the Buy BC program supported by the BC Ministry of Agriculture. The purpose of the activity was for delegates to write a radio advertisement for a BC agriculture or food product. The advertisements ranged from humorous rhyming jingles, to creative interviews showcasing various products produced in BC.

Overall, Food for Thought 2020 was a great success! Youth delegates learned a lot about BC Agriculture and especially liked the opportunity to tour farms virtually and talk to farmers live on Zoom.

"Thank you so much for a great day of activities. I had a lot of fun, and I learned so much about BC's incredible agriculture industry. Thank you for putting the time into making this program a success!" - Victoria, Food for Thought Delegate

I'm a member of the Hatzic Valley Community 4-H club, and this was our first year as an official club. So, we were a little disappointed when we found out 4-H was full of so many uncertainties, and in the beginning, there were no promises that there would be any fairs. However, people found a way to bring the fun and still respect social distancing!

The Abbotsford Agrifair made 4-H happen by organizing a drive-thru experience for everyone! Some dairy club members, as well as goat and llama members from my club were able to set up some stalls displaying our projects for the public to see as they drive by. Interacting with the public from the outside of the vehicles was a very strange and different experience, but it helped that the public was so engaged and shouted out questions from their open windows.

My favorite highlight from the drive-thru experience was having Frisco there. He interacted with the other displays, the other 4-H members, and danced to some good country tunes while we waved to the passing cars! The Abbotsford Agrifair didn't run the way I was used to, but I enjoyed seeing so many smiling faces after being months in lockdown, and am so thankful for the many people who participated and made it happen. 2020 will for sure be a 4-H year I will never forget.

How different was this years Williams Lake 4-H and District annual 4-H show and sale?

Since there was no shows allowed to happen and having a limit of 50 people social distancing in one area it was a little more challenging for the Williams lake and district 4-H Council to plan the 2020 4-H show and sale held in Williams Lake B.C, just because it was a challenge doesn't mean it stopped them though, after many months of meeting and decision making they had come up with a plan. This years 4-H show had to be canceled because there would have been way to many people in the area at a time, hearing this definitely made the 4-H members very sad.

Thankfully we were still able to have a sale though. The sale this year was somewhat different than the regular 4-H sale because of Covid, usually having over 100 people in the stands bidding and parents / members watching, we had to limit to 50 people at the Williams Lake stock yards, for the other people who couldn't come to bid in the stands we did a live auction with DLMS that way people would be safe at home but still support the 4-H members. Many kids where worried about how well this online system would work, what if there was glitches? Or someone's bid didn't go through? Well it was actually quite amazing. The prices the members got this year where more then any member could imagine. The average beef was $5.40/Lbs, Swine was $7.90/Lbs, sheep was $7.50/Lbs, turkey was $24.50/Lbs, photography was $582, foods was $506 and small engines was $1133. We wouldn't of had a sale like this if it wasn't for all the amazing support from all the 2020 4-H buyers as well all the leaders.

This is my fist year being a 4-H ambassador, and I was exited to get going with my 4-H year! Sadly, COVID-19 hit, and everything was put to a stop. I was upset not being able to go to a fair, running wild getting ready for the show, and having fun with 4-H. Then I heard that Agrafair was doing a safari drive through!

I volunteered right away, and was glad to be there to help out! I was able to bring my new llama, Bambino, and I had also brought my baby goat, Frodo. It was a very hot day, and I got majorly burned, but it was worth it! I stood by my animal's pen, waving at the public and answering any small questions they had. Sometimes I would take out Bambino and do some tricks to show the public, like jumping over a hay bail, cushing (Laying down), and standing on top of the bail. Frisco the Fox, the 4-H mascot, also was there, bringing joy to the children's faces!

Special Educational Display Competition

Submitted by: Cassandra Sauer, Youth Development Coop

The annual 4-H Festival at the Pacific National Exhibition (PNE) hosts 4-H members from across British Columbia to showcase their projects and interact with fair attendees. The Special Educational Display Competition usually hosted at the PNE is open to youth from across the province to learn about an aspect of BC Agriculture through the creation of an educational display. Due to the circumstances of COVID - 19 this year's display boards did not have the exposure to the public from thousands of fair attendees as the participants competed from the comfort of their home.

This is year the topic was "Emergency Preparedness" where participants highlighted the importance of planning for readiness and survival during an emergency! The Emergency Preparedness theme encouraged participants to develop topics such as exploring elements of emergency planning for families or farms, show how to build an emergency kit, outline safety tips for various types of emergencies, profile the important role of someone working on the front-line during an emergency and share ideas for emergency recovery.

Along with the displays, the Special Education Display Competition included a webinar where participants could learn more about Emergency Preparedness. Graham Knox & Bernard Friesen from the BC Ministry of Agriculture Innovation and Adaptation Services Branch delivered an interactive webinar over Zoom on an introduction to emergency management and emergencies in agriculture.

Together they discussed the 4 pillars of emergency management, the incident command system, emergencies that affect agriculture and the BC Ministry of Agriculture's role.

Thank you to the Ministry of Agriculture for sponsoring this program and huge congratulations to all of the 4-H members who participated!

Designated Gifts – An Alternate Way to Support 4-H BC

Submitted by: Gordon Bryant, Chilliwack B.C.
President, 4-H BC Foundation

It is often said the 4-H B.C. Foundation is the ‘best kept 4-H secret going.’ Even more true is that Foundation donation options are ‘not always well understood’ by the 4-H British Columbia community and potential 4-H Foundation donors.

Like a four leaf clover, there are four things one needs to know about the 4-H B.C. Foundation:

- It is the investment arm of 4-H British Columbia
- All donations are invested in perpetuity, with annual earnings disbursed to 4-H.
- There are over a dozen types of donation options to fit individual donor’s wishes, plus also a choice between a General Fund donation and Designated Gift donation.
- To help grow the Foundation, the best thing 4-H Leaders and parents can do is to refer potential donors to Trustees or 4-H staff, to ‘start a conversation’.

The Foundation, as the investment arm of 4-H British Columbia, has a portfolio of over one and half million dollars, 45 years of donation experience, and is a registered charity that can provide a charitable tax receipt to a donor. Disbursements go annually to 4-H member and volunteer 4-H Leader programs. Foundation objectives are broad and inclusive and aim “to provide opportunity for all individuals and organizations to contribute financially to 4-H British Columbia.” Foundation’s goal is to reach $ 2 million by 2025.

General Fund Donations, of any amount, are invested in perpetuity, and a charitable tax receipt is provided. Annual earned income is provided to 4-H BC Provincial Council (a registered charity) for 4-H BC programs and activities. Brochures, ‘The Future Is in Your Hands’ and ‘Leave a Legacy’ explain various Ways to Give. (E.g. $, insurance policy, property, donation written into one’s will, etc.) Check out <https://www.4hbc.ca/support/bc-foundation>

Designated Gifts are an alternate choice, whereby a donor receives a Charitable tax receipt, and designates (directs) their donation’s earnings, in perpetuity. Each gift is ‘named’ for the donor.

Option A: 4-H Endowment - Minimum $5,000 donation, with a one-step signed Donor Agreement, with no administration fee. Annual earnings are designated to a specific 4-H BC provincial 4-H program, such as Scholarships, Provincial Communications, Ambassadors, etc.; or even a specific new initiative.)

Option B: 4-H Designated Donation - Minimum of $25,000 donation, with annual earnings designated to a specific 4-H District Council or Regional Council for a 4-H activity of the district’s / region’s choice applied for annually. One % admin administration fee. Three step process signed Donor Agreement + Recipient Agreement, + annual Application.

DISCOVER 4-H DAY CAMPS

This year, the Discover 4-H Day Camps were able to provide youth without a 4-H club in their community, an opportunity to experience 4-H. Despite some challenges associated with COVID-19, we were able to overcome those barriers and safely host three day camps around the province. During the planning stages, we were unsure if people were going to attend the camps, because of COVID-19, but we were thrilled and shocked at how well the camps were received. We are proud that our new leaders are resilient and willing to start a club in one of the most challenging seasons to date.

Our first day camp in Valemount on August 12 th was a huge success. We had a total of 13 youth age 5-13 participate and we are hopeful that a new club will be starting in the area soon.

Our second day camp was at the Kamloops Indian Band on August 21 st. While we had low attendance, we were able to connect with First Nation communities and foster relationships with members. We are hopeful that clubs with Lower Nicola Indian Band and Kamloops Indian Band will be starting soon.

Our third and final day camp was on Malcolm Island on August 26 th. We had a total of 18 youth age 4-13 attend. We are excited to have new leaders starting a club on the island with their main projects focusing on poultry and outdoor living.

The purpose of the day camps is to introduce kids to 4-H and the programs and projects that are available to them. The day camp curriculum is focused around the 4-H pillars and the 4-H clover. Our first topic was regarding “Head: Science and Technology” where we did a photography activity and learned about density by making a rainbow in a jar. Our second topic was “Heart: Community Engagement and Communications”. In this section we played a communication game and wrote a card to a neighbour that models good citizenship. In our next section, we focused on “Hands: Sustainable Agriculture and Food Security” and we learned about the honeybee and poultry projects. The kids enjoyed being able to touch a live chicken and learn about them. Our final section was “Health: Environment and Healthy Living”. In this section we introduced the kids to the gardening project by making grass heads. We also played a game of exercise bingo to learn about exercise.

This year, many of the activities had to be adapted to allow for physical distancing, and a lot of work went in to creating interactive and engaging activities that were safe, but still fun. In previous years there were many collaborative activities, but this year, we had to adapt them to be more independent and low touch. Fortunately, many of the attendees were siblings or in the same COVID-19 bubble, which meant that they were able to sit together and collaborate for some activities. We are so thankful for the support from our sponsors (Gov. of Canada, BC Ministry of Agriculture and 4-H BC Foundation)!

Chilliwack Fair

Submitted by: Julie Chadwick, President of the Chilliwack 4-H Community Club

On Sunday August 9th the Chilliwack 4-H Community Club held its first show of 2020. This year has been hard on us all, especially us 4-Hers who were planning for the fairs, to hang out with friends and for those of us who have them to sell our market projects. At this event we were able to have a sense of what it was like again for the older members as well as all the new first years. The Chilliwack fair had graciously let us

To abide by Covid-19 rules we had small groups for showing consisting of a maximum of 4 kids. We offered showmanship which was judged by Holly Longmuir for rabbit and cavy juniors and intermediates. Husbandry also played an important role in the event, our judge Bev Coulosey, asked the members to explain how we care for our animals and checked our cages to make sure we provided everything they needed. Our last table consisted of a hybrid class between health checks and project, this was judged by our
